ANOTHER BLOW FOR HARAHAN?

HINTED THAT MR. HARRIMAN PREFERS REAL FIGHTERS.

And May Put Some One Else at the Head of Illinois Central -Wall Street Would Like to Hear Harriman's Comment

-Harahan's "Loyalty" to Fish Recalled. The fighting factions in Illinois Central, or, to be more exact, non-fighting represeptatives of the fighting factions, took notice yesterday of President Harahan's Chicago stand upon dignity and the decision of the spokesman of the Harriman directors that Stuyvesant Fish didn't really hit Mr. Harahan, but simply choked him and cuffed him and tossed him aside.

Comment on the combat was more general and more vigorous than on the preceding day. Some of it was to the effect that the end of the conflict marked the beginning of the end of Mr. Harahan's presidency in the Illinois Central. That was from Harriman sources. From the Fish side came many terse remarks on the Harahan statement. With Mr. Fish himself the episode, as before, was treated as a matter of action rather than words. All he would say was this:

"The Harahan incident was closed when I left the Illinois Central offices on Wednesday. What he may now see fit to give out after his return to Chicago does not interest me, nor will it lead me to break the silence which I have maintained."

Fish adherents let fall many loose re marks about Mr. Harshan's contention that "dignity would not permit him to publicly discuss personal matters." None of these had to do with the split infinitive, but all were redundant with rhetoric, caustic and personal. On the statement of Mr. Harahan that "Mr. Fish's actions had severed their friendship several years prior to 1906" they produced facts.

A representative of one of the Fish directors showed a string of newspaper clippings of a length three times as great as the height of Mr. Fish. There were many Chicago despatches to New York papers containing interviews with Mr. Harahan in which he protested fealty to Mr. Fish in his contest with Mr. Harriman and a multitude of clippings from Chicago newspapers to the same purport. The general trend of them was embodied in a despatch to a New York paper which espoused the Harriman cause.
"Everything that was said about me in certain publications indicating that I have become a foe of Mr. Fish," Mr. Harahan was reported as saying by way of resenting an insinuation of desertion. "is absolutely I am not a Harriman man and I

Mr. Fish, this representative said, had Mr. Fish, this representative said, had his suspicions early in the campaign and later became convinced that Mr. Harahan was more tightly bound to Mr. Harriman than to himself. The conviction had to be driven into him, however, and it was only driven in when Mr. Fish learned beyond the peradventure of a doubt that in July, weeks before the meeting at which he was deposed, Mr. Harahan had signed a paper in which he, together with other directors previously friendly to Mr. Fish, pledged themselves to carry out Mr. Harriman's desires.

"Mr. Fish and every one else knew he was this representative continued. "But both Mr. Fish and his close friends insisted on a showdown for the sole purpose of determining how far the actions of Mr. Harahan and one or two others comported with their professions of faith. Mr. Fish told Mr. Harahan of his decision the morning of the meeting and not until then did the lat-ter let him know that he had taken a position against him and was to get his office. Mr. Fish simply replied that he would go to the meeting and see him do it.

It became known that the version of the combat in which Mr. Fish was reported as simply choking and cuffing Mr. Harahan came from one of the Harriman directors who left the meeting before the physical contact occurred. Among Mr. Harahan's contact occurred. Among Mr. Harahan a triends there was a disposition to regard this second day version of the affray as incredible. Mr. Harahan is a strong and powerful man, one of them said, had been a section boss in his time and had generated. ally matured in a more athletic environ should remain quiescent while being cuff ed and shaken around loose.

Minor members of the Harriman following expressed no approval of Mr. Harahan's position from any standpoint. Whatever may be said of Mr. Harriman, they contended, he is a fighter who has never been known to quail or shrink before any one. There was speculation among them as to whether, under the circumstances. Mr. thether, under the circumstances. Harriman would care to retain Mr. Harahan Attention was called to reports current after the Illinois Central meeting last November that Mr. Harahan would be president of the Illinois Central for a year

None of the main members of the Harriman party would discuss the matter for publication. Apparently they were waiting for an expression of Mr. Harriman's views. For that matter the entire financial com munity iconsidered that few things would be more interesting at the present time than a declaration from Mr. Harriman on a subject that has been the principal topic of discussion for two days, Mr. Harriman is expected back in the city next MANHATTAN BISCUIT ASSIGNS. Tight Money Blamed for Failure of a Promising Rival of the Trust.

The Manhattan Biscuit Company, manufacturers of crackers at 392 Greenwich street, which has been looked upon by the trade as a rival of the National Biscuit Company-the Biscuit Trust-made an as signment yesterday to Albert N. Crow George H. Mallory, attorney for the assignce, attributes the failure to contraction of credit due to unsettled financial condi-

The company was incorporated in New Jersey on September 14, 1899, with a capital stock of $250,000, $130,000 of which was paid in. The rest consisted of the good will of two Philadelphia baking companies. The factory and site in Greenwich street are said to have cost $100,000. Agencies were established in New Jersey, Maryland. Georgia, Florida, North Carolina and Porto Rico. The officers of the company are Frederick W. Brooker, president, and W.

H. Becker, secretary. After the Crescent Biscuit and Manufacturing Company went bankrupt three months ago attention was directed to the Manhattan Biscuit Company, as competition had been very stiff for the last two rears. A month ago, however, President Brooker told inquirers that business was in a prosperous condition, and it is believed that most of the firm's troubles are cue to inability to get the proper accommodations during the pinch of the last few weeks. Recently eight banks are said to have inquired into the company's financial status. The company's statement on January 1 showed assets of $195,000 and liabilities of $50,000. Mr. Mallory was unable to give the present figures.

President Brooker said last night that he believed the assets would be about $150,000 and the liabilities about $50,000 The cost of raw material had jumped of late and in the present money famine the company had found it difficult to renew its notes. These, Mr. Brooker said, were the reasons for the assignment.

GOSSIP OF WALL STREET.

In the first Stock Exchange session of the week the market was flooded with rumors of failures. A number of important houses, it was said, were in dire straits and insolvency announcements might be expected at any moment. At no other time in a year in which the failure rumor game has been worked as never before were the predictions more posiat the close of the last trading day of the an assertion would have been laughed off the Street, for the rumors could not have been more thoroughly discredited. Those who gave expression to them early in the week were accordingly quiet yesterday. But they were busy, many of them. They were Busy covering shorts and lamenting the outcome of a market device which brought them not was heard to express a word of sympathy.

The change in sentiment from the opening to the closing of the week was marked many other ways than by the collapse of the last resort of the bear contingent. was denoted principally by the fact that there was a firm and broad market for inactive stocks and specialties as well as for all the active stocks. In the morning trading on Monday many standard investment stocks had no market at all and whatever sales of them were made were at costly concessions over previous sales, low though these had Yesterday offers at substantial vances from the low of the year could have been found for all such securities. The market in the meanwhile had not only gained strength. It had gained in the range of purchasing power and, though still at a low level, had ecome restored to normal conditions.

In one of the high priced investment special ties, Lackawanna, purchases of 400 shares brought about an advance of 19% points yesterday. The price of this stock often fluctuates widely between sales, but a jump of nearly twenty points is nevertheless exceptional. A thousand shares of Peoria and Castern changed hands at a gain of 5 points. The improvement in purchasing power was also indicated by gains of 6 points in United States Leather preferred, 2% in Frisco second preferred and 3% in Smelters preferred, among others.

Fears of large gold exports, which were fled to some extent by the shipment of $1,000. were entirely dissipated vesterday, for demand sterling bills dropped to 4.8620. The decline was particularly reassuring on account of its close coincidence with heavy deposits of Government funds in the banks in this city. To the expected sale of a large block of city bonds to Paris bankers the decline in the exchange market was principally attributed. This expected development, combined with improvement in the money situation in London and purchases of stocks for London account throughout the week. even gave rise to hopes of gold imports a little later on. A week ago no one ventured to entertain such an idea.

Call money advanced to 4 per cent, the ighest rate since the middle of August, but the advance was not unfavorably regarded, because some hardening of rates was ex-pected on the day preceding a three days cessation of business.

The market moved languidly in the first London had sent over lower prices. and in the early trading price movements were in sympathy with the London decline A few traders who had closed out their commitments took on renewed courage and sold short in the expectation that the market would sag under realizing sales and that they would have an opportunity to get their stocks back in the afternoon or in the early trading on Tuesday. Prices gave way a bit under this selling, but became dull at the low range, and it was evident that the attack was bringing out little stock. From that time until the close more and more shorts considered it expedient to cover. Their offers brought out very little stock, so that the market advanced sharply of small transactions. On this account the advance was much more impressive.

It was reported that the Government had made deposits in three Wall Street banks. The amount was not given, but was supposed to be of only moderate size. Of much greater importance were the deposits in mercantile banks and the practical conclusion of arrangements for deposits in other mercantile ment than Mr. Fish's surroundings in the effete East. It was fair to him to believe that he had been jarred by a quick and powerful blow but inexplicable that he should remain quiescent while being cuff ed unlikely event that the depository banks announce the amounts deposited in each. the exact amount will not be known for some time at least. It is certain, however, that the amount is large enough to afford considerable relief.

> The secreey of the Treasury officials in regard to the destination and amount of the deposits, which is in accordance with the announced policy of the Secretary, was illustrated by the experience of a prominent in one of the large Eastern cities The banker went to Washington for the express purpose of securing information on deposits in his locality. He returned without as much as an intimation of the Secre-

Metropolitan went off seven points on three sales. The first was 100 shares at 38, two points below Thursday's close. The next hundred shares went at 361/2, and there was then dumped on the market a block of 700 shares for which the best offer was 35. Succeeding sales were at better prices, with the last trans. at 39. The offering of 900 shares at prices below that figure were generally considered to represent forced liquidation.

Since its sharp advance of three points be tween the closing sale on Tuesday and the opening sale on Wednesday, Delaware and Hudson has at no time sold below 150, Wednesday's opening price. Yesterday the cheapest price was 151, but short covering was more extensive than on any preceding day. The stock closed at 1521/2, a net gain of 21/2 points.

For the first time in five weeks the market closed at higher prices than at the beginning of the week's trading. The average of railroad stock prices at the close showed that gain had been so substantial that about two-fifths of the loss of the preceding four weeks had been recovered.

Reports that producers and consumers of copper were close to an agreement on a new scale of copper prices lent some strength to the copper stocks. The new price, it was believed, would be no lower than 18 cents, insuring for the year a higher average price than was maintained in 1906, although, of course, a much lower rate than prevailed in the latte part of last year. It was predicted that purchases on a large scale would follow the agreement on prices, and some men in the were reported as declaring that there would be assured purchases far in excess of the purchases after the previous cut in prices. The day closed without developments justifying these predictions, but with a general expectation that the new scale would be adopted early next week.

Though the majority of professionals had been rather inclined to fight the advance previously, professional sentiment was predominantly bullish in the afternoon. The difficulty of securing stocks, though there were no appearances of a drive on the shorts, was particularly in bringing about the shift of position. One large bear contingent, which for three weeks declared it had inside information of anti-corporation proceedings in Washington, has latterly covered its entire ine and is now long of stocks. Members of this bear party are reported as saying that the silence in Administration circles is likely to continue for some time longer.

TREASURY CASH DISTRIBUTED

MOST OF IT EXPECTED TO GET TO THE INTERIOR.

The Transaction Carried Out Secretly. as Cortelyou Planned - Banker Guesses the Amount Released as $8,000,000 -Foreign Exchange Behaves Well.

The Treasury Department made substantial deposits yesterday in some of the banks of this city and perfected arrangements for further deposits to-day. These and a few others placed previously con-stitute the bulk of the deposits on the first week of the operation of Secretary Cortelyou's new policy. In accordance with one of the terms of this policy no information of the amount of the deposits and the manner of their distribution was obtainable, either from the authorities at Washington or the Sub-Treasury officials in this city. The amount was estimated by a banker to be in excess of $8,000,000.

Most of these first deposits under Secretary Cortelyou's plan go to the mercantile banks of this city. Some of the Wall Street banks got deposits of fair amount, but these it was understood, were institutions having the largest number of interior correspondents, and were assisted in order to increase their ability to assist banks in the crop sections. The mercantile banks, the Chemical, for instance, benefited principally from the first operation of the new plan.

The banker who made the $8,000,000 estimate of the amount of the week's deposits made or arranged for said that he did not base it on such figures as ordinarily he considered necessary in making such an estimate. It was impossible for any one, he said, to make a certainly approximate appraisal, because Mr. Cortelyou has fur-mished abundant reason for the mainte-nance of a policy of taciturnity in regard to the matter, and most bankers consider the matter, and most bankers consider themselves bound to respect the Secre-tary's wishes. The $8,000,000 estimate was accordingly a guess, but it was a guess made after consultation with the heads of several of the largest mercantile banks.

Secretary Cortelyou's prime reasons for secrecy in regard to the distribution and amount of the deposits were desires that they should not upset the foreign exchange by bringing about a sudden export move-ment of gold and that no one should assume ment of gold and that no one should assume a feeling of speculative optimism or desire for business expansion because of the deposits. He has given fair notice that the deposits would be placed in the localities where, according to the best information he could obtain, they would be most needed. That they are placed principally in mercantile banks of New York is, therefore, no assurance that next week's deposits. cantile banks of New York is, therefore, no assurance that next week's deposits will not go to some interior city or to banks which are accustomed to supply money for crop moving purposes. Directly or indirectly, it is believed, a great part of the deposits in the next few weeks will get to the interior.

yesterday in a manner most encouraging to those optimistic on the general money situation in this country. While on the announcement of the Secretary's policy last week every banker was apprehensive last week every banker was apprehensive of an outflow of the deposits to Europe, the movement of exchange tended greatly to dissipate these fears. Principally, it was believed, the decline was due to arrangements on the part of Paris bankers to take allotments of the forthcoming city bond issue. The decline was to 4.8620, far below the parity of exchange, and though there was a bit of a rally at the close it was not sufficient to disturb the conviction that gold imports in the con-weeks are more probable than exports.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Reports of the State of Trade by "Dun's" and "Bradstreet's." Bradstreet's savs:

Crop and trade developments display ir regularity, rendering generalization difficult Extremes of abundant moisture, cool weather or continued drought are noted in different stances arresting development in others and in places working damage of a more or less serious character. Fall jobbing trade has improved at most large centres, and from the Northwest comes the report that goods ordered held back are now being urged for some markets are well filled with buyers and some lines report sales exceeding a year ago there is a noticeable undercurrent of conservatism in buying, and there is less than ordinary purchasing of complete new stocks of merchandise for new enterprises. Yet, again there are instances, as for example in the Eastern leather and shoe trades, where conservatism in buying early in the year ba resulted in curtailment of production and now hurry orders for goods are noted.

Dun's says: In most sections of the country commercial activity is fully maintained and negotiations for fall and winter trade indicate no loss of confidence, but at a few points the weather has not favored the crops, which causes conservatism pending more definite information. Several New England mills lack adequate water power because of prolonged drought, and the money market retards numerous undertakings. Collections are also slower in some cases because of the financial situation, but the large majority of reports are favorable. Dry goods jobbing houses are very busy, and in the cotton goods industry the only complaint is the inability to secure deliveries with sufficient promptness Specifications on old contracts for Anished steel encounter the same difficulty, although the mills show some improvements as to shipments, and in all leading manufacturing branches there are fewer cancellations than

FEARS ANOTHER CAR SHORTAGE. Interstate Commission Taking Steps to Prevent Fuel Famine in the West.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 .- Franklin K. Lane, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, returned to Washington to-day after a month's absence. He will leave for the Pacific coast Monday to hear a number of cases at San Francisco, Seattle and Portland involving alleged violations of the Hepburn railroad rate act. On his way to the coast Commissioner Lane will confer with representatives of the railroads and the shippers relative to condi-tions in the world of transportation. The Government apprehends another car shortage in the season of 1907-08 more serious than the one which gave so much trouble in the middle West and Northwest last winter. Efforts will be made by the Interstate Commission, as represented by Mr. Lane, to induce shippers to move as apply as regardly as regardl early as possible fuel and other supplies necessary for physical comfort. Last winnecessary for physical comfort. Last win-ter great suffering was caused among people in the West due to the fuel famine follow-ing the shortage in the supply of cars. The railroads, it is understood, have made comparatively small expenditures for equipment during the last six months and a car shortage will result, according to reports received here, unless something is done between now and the early winter is done between now and the early winter

the Southern Railway Concluded. WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 .- The cross-examnation of Comptroller Plant of the Southern Itailway was concluded to-day at the North Carolina rate hearing. Many of the questions of Speaker Justice were directed to obtaining from Mr. Plant calculations as to results of intrastate operation in North Carolina, based on the assumption that it costs no more to do intrastate business than to do all business and that no allow-improvements and betterments. General Counsel Thom objected to this line of testimony, not only on the ground that it was contrary to the rule laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Smith against Ames, but also because it asked for calculations based on an unsustained theory as to relative costs of operation.

ance should be made for expenditures for

At the conclusion of Mr. Plant's crossexamination the meeting was adjourned to next Thursday at the request of the attorneys for the State of North Carolina, so as to permit Chairman McNeill and Secretary Brown of the corporation commission to go to Raleigh on busin as of the commission. Mr. Thom at first objected to the adjournment, on the ground that it would make it difficult to complete the taking of testimony so as to give the master time to file his report in the United States Circuit Court at Asheville on September 23, the date fixed by Judge Pritchard. Mr. Thom pointed out that there had been no delay on the part of the railway company and that three-fourths to five-sixths of the time occupied in the examination of its witnesses had been taken up by the State in the cross-examination.

During the discussion of the motion for the adjournment it was developed that the State will insist on time for the preparation of its case after the railway witne been examined, and will present a large amount of testimony.

Special Master Montgomery in granting the motion for the adjournment announced that in view of the number of attorneys employed by the State he would insist that those not actively engaged in cross-examining the witnesses of the railway work on the preparation of their own case and would endeavor to have the testimony all in so that the preparation of their own case and what the testimony all in so that the report could be made on the day fixed by the Court. The railway authorities insist that the State counsel is seeking to delay the case.

The manner of Speaker Justice became so arbitrary to-day in cross-examining Comptroller Plant that Special Master Montgomery rebuked him and suggested that he lower his voice. The attorney explained that he was speaking in his natural tone, whereupon General Counsel Thom suggested that the attorney wanted to be heard in North Carolina. d in North Carolina.

TO INSURE CITY'S BOND ISSUE. Syndicate to Step In. It's Understood, Only if Individual Bids Are Insufficient.

Although bankers are confident that individual bids will be made on September 10 sufficient to take up all the $40,000,000 of 41/2 per cent. city bonds, it was learned on high authority yesterday that a syndicate had been formed to buy the whole issue, if subscriptions should be lacking, or as much of the issue as may not be sold. Their price, however, it is understood, will be but very little above par. In the syndicate are several of the big insurance com-panies, banks, trust companies and private

Although the syndicate has been formed with the idea of stepping in in case the sale is not a success it is asserted that the mem-bers of the syndicate have not abrogated their right to make preliminary offers on their own behalf, and in some cases it was learned yesterday these offers are likely to run up as high as 105. On that basis the bonds yield about 4.285 per cent. To yield this percentage the 4 per cent. bonds, which are part of the recent $29,000,000 issue.

of which only a very small proportion was sold, would have to sell at 93.35.

They sold at about this price a few days ago, but it was the lowest point they touched, and since they have had a rise, reaching 97 yesterday. This rise was attributed by ome, however, to a squeeze of shorts sold the bonds short expecting them to decline sharply with the announcement of the new bond sale. Then when the time came to deliver them the house had to bid

In other quarters, however, the advance in the is was attributed to confidence that the new bonds would all be bought and to the fact that contractors were to longer drugging the market with the bonds that had been given them in payment of the
